true stories intensifies and extends many of the themes in margaret atwood's critically acclaimed novel Bodily Harm the necessity of bearing witness to the crimes of repressive political societies and the redemptive power of friendship many of the poems are concerned with the unreliability of human perception and the self-deluding true stories we tell to give ourselves a sense of identity of stature the collection also includes a number of extraordinarily and passionate and luminous love poems back cover the companion volume to the recently reissued Second Words moving targets is an essential collection of critical prose by margaret atwood now available in a handsome new a list edition the most precious treasure of this collection is that it gives us the rich back story and diverse range of influences on margaret atwood's work from the aunts who encouraged her nascent writing career to the influence of george orwell's Nineteen Eighty-Four on the handmaid's tale we trace the movement of atwood's fertile and curious mind in action over the years atwood's controversial political pieces napoleon's two biggest mistakes and letter to america both not so veiled warnings about the repercussions of the war in iraq also appear alongside pieces that exhibit her active concern for the environment the north and the future of the human race atwood also writes about her peers john updike marina warner italo calvino marian engel toni morrison angela carter gabriel garcia marquez mordecai richler elmore leonard and ursula le guin this is a landmark volume from a major writer whose worldwide readership is in the millions and whose work has influenced and entertained generations moving targets is also the companion volume to the recently reissued second words how does one of the greatest storytellers of our time write her own life the long awaited memoir from the author of the handmaid s tale and the testaments one of our most lauded and influential cultural figures every writer is at least two beings the one who lives and the one who writes though everything written must have passed through their minds or mind they are not the same raised by ruggedly independent scientifically minded parents entomologist father dietician mother atwood spent most of each year in the wild forest of northern quebec this childhood was unfettered and nomadic sometimes isolated on her eighth birthday it sounds forlorn it was forlorn it gets more forlorn but also thrilling and beautiful from this unconventional start atwood unfolds the story of her life linking seminal moments to the books that have shaped our literary landscape from the cruel year that spawned cat s eye to the orwellian 1980s berlin where she wrote the handmaid s tale in pages bursting with bohemian gatherings her magical life with the wildly charismatic writer graeme gibson and major political turning points we meet poets bears hollywood actors and larger than life characters straight from the pages of an atwood novel as we travel with her along the course of her life more and more is revealed about her writing the connections between real life and art and the workings of one of our greatest imaginations most writers tend to write the same book or poem over and over again expanding its scope and refining its variants margaret atwood however continues to re invent herself as she re invents her characters and her poetic personae with every new work each novel each new poetry collection signals a departure a radical turn in an unexpected direction each becomes a daring journey that expands the reader s consciousness and defeats expectations atwood s writing has dealt with a multiplicity of urgent question from the destruction of the environment the role of women in society and the spiritual alienation caused by consumerism to the desensitising nature of mass culture the loss of individual liberties the responsibility of the writer and the limits of fiction all of which have been individually and in depth addressed in the present collection of essays the contributors gayle greene branko gorjup coral howells lorna irvine stephanie lovelady susan jaret mckinstry jennifer murray caterina ricciardi barbara hill rigney roberta rubenstein come from several different countries making this collection truly international in outlook thanks to their skilful guidance the reader will marvel at the extent to which atwood has internationalised canada and has transformed it into an exciting real and imaginative world he has taught canadian literature in universities in canada and italy
